

LOCAL AGENTS' VOICE

Cutting Off Commissions Cur-tails Income.

SCHEDULE OF LOSSES

ARE OUT FROM $200 TO $300 MONTHLY.

Of This Sum the Western Agents Are Deprived of $500 and the Union Pacific and Short Line of a Similar Sum—Improvements Recently Put in Western Shops.

A circular dated Chicago, Jan. 24, has been issued under the authority of all the railroad lines west of that city, setting forth that they will not, under any circumstances, after Feb. 1, pay any sort of stipend or consideration of any character to ticket agents, brokers or others, for their influence or as a commission on the sale of passenger tickets over their respective lines. This circular bears the printed signatures of one of the high officials connected with each road, the Short Line being subscribed by Vice President Bancroft, and the Grande Western by Traffic Manager Rabcock.

Local agents whose monthly incomes have been thus curtailed seemed to take their medicine with good grace yesterday, but when the proposition to eliminate the commission on steamship tickets to foreign ports was broached there was a unanimity of sentiment to the effect that if such a step was taken the steamship companies would be the recipients of agency resignations and all their tickets.

The local city ticket agent of the Rio Grande Western railway has been a good paying proposition for years past, in that the representative has been collecting commissions from all the connecting lines east of Denver. This includes the connecting lines at Denver to the east and south, and at the Missouri river to points farther east. The commission on the Union Pacific, with about $200 a month, and Agent Kyles of the Oregon Short Line with about $70 a month.

Outside of the city, the joint office at Ogden, presided over by C. Henry, will be denuded of about $200 a month, the Butte, Helena and Spokane agencies of about $100 a month, and Seattle, Tacoma and Portland agencies of about $150 to $200 a month. The loss to the agents at San Francisco will figure away into the thousands.

ORDER FROM CHAOS.

Work Being Done in Western Shops.

Cosmos is replacing chaos in the yards and repair shops of the Rio Grande Western railway; things are being tidied up in shipshape fashion; the work is being concentrated in the different departments, and the overcrowded blacksmith and boiler-making shops have been relieved by the addition of a good-sized annex. All the latest and machine tools in the machine shop have undergone new alignment, and two new locomotive pits have been excavated. Seven locomotives in various stages of the diseases incident to these repairs are on the ways, and are being repaired as rapidly as the facilities at hand will permit.

The car wheels and scrap iron between the shops and the round-house have been separated and sorted, and the space between the numerous tracks have been parked with gravel. Under the supervision of Foreman J. Adams, the wood-butchers' are doing their tasks and new and old saws are being used on the main line, the first two of which are now being set up previous to being sent out for use on the road.

A new set of six-wheel trucks are being constructed for car "B." Superintendent Welch's private conveyance, the narrow gauge truck on Utah Central No. 10 have been widened out to standard gauge, and the car will be set down to operate on the Sunnyside branch some time this week. Coach No. 37 has been thoroughly overhauled and repainted by the car department. Foreman Marston, has baggage car No. 10 and mail car No. 4, both of which will take the main line this week.

Two new wood-working machines are being added to the equipment of the carpenter shop in the past four months. One of the most ingenious wood-working devices ever invented is now being set up and during the week of 10 men in about half the time formerly took under the old method. The machine is manufactured by the A. Fay & Egan company of Cincinnati, and is technically known as a belt and block mortiser. To the layman it is recognized as a tool for cutting square holes. The reciprocating motion supported by means of reverse motion pulleys which is automatically thrown into action by clutches, and which in turn actuate the usual gears.

CONCEDED AN INCREASE.

Union Pacific Engineers to Get More Pay.

Ogden, Jan. 27.—Seventy-five days ago the engineers and officials of the Union Pacific began a conference regarding the wage schedule, which has been decided, the engineers getting a substantial increase. The differences came about over the introduction of heavier engines, for running which the engineers and firemen considered they were entitled to more pay. The schedule provided for:

The principal increases were on the locomotive divisions, where most of the heavy engines are used. It is announced by both the engineers and firemen that they have been met in a spirit of fairness, and that they are satisfied. The increase on the heavy engines runs on the locomotive divisions from 5 to 10 per cent.

RAILROAD NOTES.

Superintendent Baker of the Pullman Service at Ogden was in town yesterday.

S. K. Hooper, general passenger agent of the Denver & Rio Grande at Denver, passed through town yesterday on his way to the San Francisco division, scheduled for the 29th inst.

The American Line Steamship company has notified its local agents that the second-class rate from New York and Philadelphia to Southampton will be advanced to $5 for the period between April and July.

H. M. Clay, general agent of the passenger department of the Union Pacific road, has recovered entirely from his recent illness. He had planned to leave for a trip to California yesterday morning. The order from Omaha regarding the local ticket office of the Union Pacific and Short Line will be in effect until Feb. 1.

Some of the a. s. r. was created in announcement of the order to consolidate the Union Pacific and Oregon Line city ticket offices. A number of surreptitious were made as to the ultimate outcome of the growing int-

Look at yourself! Is your face covered with pimples? Your skin rough and blotchy? It's your liver! Ayer's Pills are liver pills. They cure constipation, biliousness, and dyspepsia. 25c. All druggists.

Want your mustache or beard a beautiful brown or rich black? Then use the BUCKINGHAM'S DYE for Whiskers. 50 CENTS. OF DRUGGISTS OR R. P. BUCKINGHAM & CO., BOSTON, U. S. A.

mate relations between the two roads: it was the general opinion that the consolidation would not stop at the ticket office. A few of the railroad men were thankful for the reminder from the Storm Starter that its columns had contained the forecast some months ago that they had forgotten it.

HIDE RUSTLERS ARE HELD

MUST ANSWER TO DISTRICT COURT IN $1,500 BOND.

Pleaded Not Guilty Before Judge Timmony, But the Evidence Was Against Them.

William Wilson, John Higgins and Ollie Love, the hide rustlers, were arraigned before Judge Timmony yesterday on the charge of breaking into Daines & Co.'s slaughter house at Bingham. They entered pleas of not guilty and manifesting a willingness to have a hearing at once the preliminary was proceeded with, and the rustlers being held in bonds of $1,500 each.

J. Bourgaard, one of the firm of Daines & Co., was first examined, testifying to the loss of the company and the value of the "swag" which was, he said, about $38.

C. G. Meyers, an employee of the company, identified the stolen hides, and Detective Sheets and Officer Sperry told of the arrest of the men and of the confession of both men. When Sperry asked them why there were blood stains on their clothes, one of the defendants told him the rustlers were bawky and "not worth a d-n," and they had to carry the stuff up a hill.

After some debate the defendants concluded to be sworn and to testify in their own behalf. Wilson came first and he stated, only, that Love was not in it.

Attorney Gunter opened fire on the witness, who suddenly developed qualities that would make Annanias ashamed of himself. He said Love wasn't there; that it was another man, "Who was he?"

"Don't know,"

"Stranger?"

"No, I knew him, but never heard his name."

"Where did you meet him?"

"Here."

"When?"

"Long time ago. He knew my cousin."

"Do you expect the court to believe that?"

"It's immaterial."

"Where did you come from, Wilson?"

"Arkansas."

"What part of Arkansas?"

"Alabama."

"In Arkansas?"

"No, I mean Birmingham."

"Isn't your true name Birmingham?"

"Wilson's near enough."

"Were you ever in the reform school of this state?"

"Yes."

"Under the name of Birmingham?"

"Yes."

Love went on the stand and swore he was paid $20 for driving the couple out into the third man, unknown.

He had no idea the hides were stolen until they paid him such a high price for his service.

The court concluded to hold all three.

MRS. YEARGIN GETS $9,500

VERDICT AGAINST THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

Plaintiff Sued to Recover $50,000, Husband Was Killed While in the Employ of the Railroad.

The jury in the case of Mrs. Kate Yeargin vs. the Southern Pacific company, yesterday morning returned a verdict for $9,500 for the plaintiff. The case was concluded on Friday and the jurors remained out all afternoon and night before they were able to reach an agreement.

Mrs. Yeargin sued to recover $50,000 for the killing of her husband, who was a locomotive engineer on the Southern Pacific road, and who was fatally hurt in a collision near Hot Springs, Nev. After returning the verdict, the jury was discharged, and there will be no more jury cases tried by the United States court next term.

LECTURED AND LET GO.

Four Boys Who Committed the Crime of Petty Larceny.

George Birrell, John Robinson, John Allen and Robert Williams, the four boys who pleaded guilty three days ago to charges of petty larceny, were given a severe lecture yesterday by Justice Kroeger and were discharged. They had spent three days and nights in the county jail, and because of their extreme youth, the confinement wasn't prolonged. They were originally bound over to the district court for sentence, but by mutual consent, the order was revoked.

POLICE PICKUPS.

The immortal Dooley, hero of a thousand battles, and terror of police court, but an easy victim to the brawn of a man with epileptic fits, was released from jail yesterday, after serving a term of ninety days, and every policeman on the force is now preparing for a good old rough and tumble.

Locus Mosley, a colored boy who just got out of jail for a petty offense, was rearrested last night by Officer Randolph on the charge of breaking into a bootblack stand at 223 South State and "borrowing" a brush and blacking box. He wept bitter tears to gain his release, but got it not.

Some miscreant stripped a $20 overcoat off a dummy in front of the Tom & Jerry clothing house last evening.

Otto Groo, an employee of the Salt Lake Soda Water company, was arrested on a warrant sworn out by his wife, Daisy Groo, yesterday, charging assault and battery. The couple could not agree and separated three weeks ago, and Mrs. Groo says her husband whipped her. He denies ever laying a violent hand on his wife.

PORTER IS DUNGED ANTIS VACCINATION REPORT

Hotel Man is "Worked" For a Hundred.

TELEGRAM GAME PLAYED

SAD NEWS CAME TO LIGHT YESTERDAY.

On the 6th of Month Mr. Porter Cashed a Draft For F. B. McElroy and in Yesterday's Mail Came Word That Paper Would Not Be Honored By Drawers.

Don Porter was positively the hottest man in Salt Lake when he opened his mail yesterday morning, for the contents of one little envelope revealed to him that he had been done out of a cool hundred by a man he supposed was a prince literally. The genial, big hotel man said he didn't care a continental wienersurst for the amount, that is to say, of course, but he did object to having a thin skinned son of a goat come and put up at his house and give him a bogus draft.

Frank B. McElroy, representing the Trenton Rubber company of Trenton, N. J., is the man who would like to meet. He came to the Kenyon on Jan. 5 and went about his business like a man of business. He was affable, smiling, good of appearance and all around a nice fellow to meet. On the 6th, he asked for his bill, and every body was sorry to see him go. If he had gone off without paying a cent, there wouldn't have been any wailing now, but just when he paid for his four days' stay he flashed a telegram on Mr. Porter, which read:

Telegram Does the Work.

"Trenton, Jan. 9.

"F. B. McElroy, Salt Lake.

"Will honor draft for $100."

"Trenton Rubber Co."

Mr. Porter, following a custom, took the telegram, put his "O. K." on it, and the clerk cashed a sight draft for the amount, through the Commercial National bank, and the rubber company was told by the rubber company.

Mr. Porter does not understand the situation clearly. He can hardly believe the telegram was forged or that McElroy was an imposter, yet he cannot understand why the firm should send the message if it was not acting in good faith. McElroy left a forwarding address, Sacramento, and an effort will probably be made to locate him there.

Meanwhile, Mr. Porter has sent the bad draft, the telegram and a full explanation of the circumstances to the company.

NOT HENRY WEBB AT ALL

WELL KNOWN BAKER DONE AN INJUSTICE.

It Was Thomas Webb Against Whom a Divorce Suit Has Been Entered.

The publication in yesterday's Herald of the filing of an amended complaint in the Webb divorce suit did Henry Webb, the baker, an injustice. The error was due to misinformation as to the name of the defendant, and The Herald hastens to correct the mistake and set Mr. Webb right in the merited esteem of his acquaintances as a moral man.

According to the amended complaint, Mrs. Webb charged her husband, Thomas Webb—not Henry Webb—with having committed adultery.

MEETING OF BASEBALL MEN

RIO GRANDE TEAM REORGANIZED LAST NIGHT.

James T. Fulton Chosen For Manager and a Governing Board Also Elected.

The delightful weather which Salt Lake has been experiencing the past few days has brought the local baseball "fans" out from their retirement and they are already beginning to lay plans for the coming season. The Rio Grande Western team is the first to start the ball rolling, and last evening the players held a meeting and perfected the organization of the nine.

As the plans were laid in last evening's caucus, a schedule of games is to be arranged and each nine is to put up a forfeit to play the schedule out. There will be no exchange of players permitted. A player will sign with one of the teams for the season, and the contract is to be binding. Salt Lake will have two teams in the league, Ogden will have one and Park City one. The Salt Lake teams will be the Rio Grande and Short Line.

The Rio Grandes intend to put a star aggregation in the field. They are negotiating for a battery that they say will be about the worst ever seen in a Salt Lake diamond. The following out field players are also on the string: Ed Plume, H. E. Blake, Santa Rosa; Bill Martin, Pocattello; Lee Hopkins, Lemmon; and S. Osborne, Laramie. The local "fans" who will play with the railroaders are Jack Melnick, Walt Senne, Bert Margolis, Sandy Macfarlane, Nele Margolis, Brigs Smith and probably Earl Gardiner.

James T. Fulton was elected manager of the team, and that fact augurs a successful season financially. Walt Senne, Jack Melnick, Bert Margolis, W. S. Evans and E. D. Hickey will, with the manager, constitute the governing board.

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

SPRING HUMORS

Complete External and Internal Treatment

Consisting of CUTICURA SOAP (25c.), to cleanse the skin of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle, CUTICURA OINTMENT (50c.), to instantly allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT (50c.), to cool and cleanse the blood. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disgusting skin, scalp, and blood humors, rashes, itching, and irritations, with loss of hair, when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. Sold throughout the world. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston. "How to Cure Baby Humors," free.

Cream Taffy 15c box, Monday, Kolitz.

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

On the Pronunciation of "Water." (Notes and Queries.)

Mr. Clerk was reading in a Scotch accent before the house of lords, The question at issue was in regard to a right of water. Mr. Clerk more Scotch pronounced the word watter. "Pray, Mr. Clerk," said one of the law peers, "do you spell water with two 't's in it, or not?" "No, my lord," was the dimpled and scorching answer of the great lawyer, "but we spell manners with two 'n's."

PARK CITY WOMAN'S WRATH

MRS. SHAW CHASTISES C. B. BLANCHARD.

SOCIETY IS IN DEBT

ALREADY OWES ITS LAWYERS $500.

Contribution Levied Last Night Was Not Sufficient to Meet This Sum and an Appeal Will Be Made to People Throughout the State For Funds—Hensel Reads Essay.

The Anti-Vaccination League met in the G. A. R. hall last night to hear the report of the committee having in charge the mandamus suit against the city board of health.

A goosy number assembled, and a look of triumph greeted President Dunbar when he took the chair. But the report of John E. Cox, treasurer, plaintiff in the suit, fell like a pall over the audience. He said that they were indebted to their lawyers to the extent of about $500, and that contributions would be received immediately. Some attempted to leave, but the door was closed and the good work began. The result was not satisfactory, for a circular was read by Mr. Scofield, to be sent throughout the state, for the purpose of organizing like leagues for raising funds.

Then Dr. Hensel said that he would make a speech, but changed his mind and read an essay. The import of this was that it is known to be a fact that in countries where vaccination is in vogue, smallpox is less virulent and widespread in its effects, this condition might possibly be due to more rigid sanitary measures. He retired amid applause.

SILVER MAKES REMARKS.

William J. Silver was next introduced by Chairman Dunbar. He began by asking why the city officials were turned down "when the damn fools told us to go," and told a very diverting story about a cow with a short tail in fly time. Then he said: "The Herald has sold itself, body and breeches, to the doctors," and was so overcome by the assertion that he sat down.

Scott Anderson appeared as usual. His speech may be read in any of the reports of the league.

After John H. White had shown evidence of the assertion that anti-vaccination, three new members—John T. Axon, Jr., William R. Jones and Dr. Hensel—were added to the executive committee, and the secretary called on the audience for testimony regarding the harm wrought by vaccination. There being none forthcoming, the meeting adjourned, subject to the call of the chairman.

MEETING OF BASEBALL MEN

RIO GRANDE TEAM REORGANIZED LAST NIGHT.

James T. Fulton Chosen For Manager and a Governing Board Also Elected.

The delightful weather which Salt Lake has been experiencing the past few days has brought the local baseball "fans" out from their retirement and they are already beginning to lay plans for the coming season. The Rio Grande Western team is the first to start the ball rolling, and last evening the players held a meeting and perfected the organization of the nine.

As the plans were laid in last evening's caucus, a schedule of games is to be arranged and each nine is to put up a forfeit to play the schedule out. There will be no exchange of players permitted. A player will sign with one of the teams for the season, and the contract is to be binding. Salt Lake will have two teams in the league, Ogden will have one and Park City one. The Salt Lake teams will be the Rio Grande and Short Line.

The Rio Grandes intend to put a star aggregation in the field. They are negotiating for a battery that they say will be about the worst ever seen in a Salt Lake diamond. The following out field players are also on the string: Ed Plume, H. E. Blake, Santa Rosa; Bill Martin, Pocattello; Lee Hopkins, Lemmon; and S. Osborne, Laramie. The local "fans" who will play with the railroaders are Jack Melnick, Walt Senne, Bert Margolis, Sandy Macfarlane, Nele Margolis, Brigs Smith and probably Earl Gardiner.

James T. Fulton was elected manager of the team, and